Select any one of the following topics stating its number:

1. Make a scene of the dispersal time at your school. The bell has rung for school to be over for the day and children can be seen running or walking excitedly towards school busses or cars at the gate. Emphasis should be on perspective and the carefree mood found at such times.
2. A birthday is coming up in your family. You have gone with either friends or family to a cake shop to select a cake for the occasion. Many types of confectionaries are on display. The man at the counter is trying to help you make up your mind.
3. A debate competition is on in your school. The scene is set with two teams facing each other, judges, audience and a speaker is at the podium.
4. You live on the 15th floor of a building and are looking out of a window. Describe what all you can see. For example only: tops of houses, parks, other buildings or maybe cars far below.
5. An elder is telling a story around a fire. All are listening with rapt attention, their faces reflecting the expression which would give us an idea what the story could be about.
